

Project III

Travel Agency Site

Self-assessment

Miguel Ferrer

Here I focused all my attention on the backend, I used the second project and the third exam of the course as the main references, and I am glad I did. This was one of the hardest projects I've ever done in my life and adapting the MERN stack to be fully functional was the hardest part. But I learn a lot from this project.

Manuel Solano

In this project I was the one who proposed the basic layout and structure of the website. For this project I focused mostly on design, aesthetic and quality elements in order to make sure that the site not only worked well but was also pleasant to look at.

Peer's Assessment

Miguel Ferrer

- Manuel Solano:

Once again, the layout of the webpage was made by him, and he dedicated a lot of time for the webpage to have a great design; in other words, he made almost all the frontend look by himself. He also wrote most of the development log.

Manuel Solano

- Miguel Ferrer:

Miguel was the one who developed the backbone of the travel agency site by creating the project and the Github repo. He was also incredibly dedicated and his work on the backend was essential for the website to work properly.
